

Tramp, 120x190cm, 2004

"Tramp" created in 2004 described a couple, homeless and living on the street. They seem to be full of aspirations for a wonderful future. Loitering around them are many redundant things, such as coins, discarded food and garbage. Of course one finds Saddam Hussein's capture reported in the headline of the New York Times. These minute but sensitive portrait stories are my way of demonstrating the horrible life of the poor who wander on the street.
